Instructor Skills Online

Just-in-Time Instructional Skills Training

Are you or your staff being thrown into classroom teaching situations without formal training? This unique online instructional skills course condenses best-practices and the skills of successful instructors in a quick-to-learn program that reduces stress while enhancing skills and helping new instructors teach professionally from day one.

Learn the latest educational theories and successful delivery skills privately, at your own pace, in a low-stress atmosphere. This program can also improve the teaching skills of workplace supervisors and corporate trainers.

Instructor Skills Online was developed for logistical reasons by a PhD instructional designer with 35+ years of teaching experience. Classroom instructional skills workshops are effective but can be prohibitively expensive for multiple employees and difficult to schedule. Online training provides an effective, interactive middle ground between classroom training and books and web resources. The ability to design and present effective educational materials enhances an instructor's professional qualifications and benefits learners and organizations.
