Elevate Your Company Experts Into Exceptional Instructors!

Just-in-Time Instructional Skills Training

Your subject-matter experts are the backbone of your organization. They have the technical expertise and industry knowledge you rely on every day. But when it comes to training others, expertise alone isn't enough. Without good instructional skills, even the most talented professionals can struggle to engage learners, leading to wasted time, lower satisfaction, and inconsistent results.

Now there's a better way to prepare new instructors, company supervisors, and corporate trainers to teach—without sending them to costly weekend workshops.

Instructor Skills Online was developed for logistical reasons by a PhD instructional designer with 35+ years of teaching experience.

Classroom instructional skills workshops are effective but can be prohibitively expensive for multiple employees and difficult to schedule. Online training provides an effective, interactive middle ground between classroom training and books and web resources. Learn the latest educational theories and successful delivery skills privately, at your own pace, in a low-stress atmosphere.
